

FoodWise is a community nutrition education program within the University of Wisconsin-Madison, Division of Extension. Extension programs respond to community needs with research-based education and partnerships that support Wisconsin families and communities.

The Milwaukee County FoodWise helps families and individuals with limited financial resources choose healthful diets, purchase and prepare nutritious food, and become more food secure by spending their food dollars wisely. The Milwaukee County FoodWise also supports strong policies, systems, and environments that make the healthy choice easier for our neighbors and communities

Empower

families with limited financial resources to choose healthful diets and become more food secure by spending dollars wisely.

Expose

children to new fruits and vegetables and why they are important.

Teach

parents how to plan and prepare healthy meals.

Support

communities in making the healthy choice, the easy choice where people live, learn, work and play.

FoodWise also helps makes the healthy choice an easier choice through policy, systems and environmental changes such as:

- Supporting strong policies, systems, and environments that encourage the health of students, families, neighborhoods, and cities
- Convening the Milwaukee Farmers Market Coalition with the goal of supporting local farmers markets and promoting the use of Federal Nutrition Benefits at markets
  - Connecting partners to support healthy communities
