Medical College of Wisconsin

John R. Raymond, Sr., MD, the Medical College of Wisconsin's (MCW) President and CEO, assumed his new position as the College's sixth President on July 1, 2010. He was previously Vice President for Academic Affairs and Provost at the Medical University of South Carolina (MUSC).

As MCW's President and CEO, Dr. Raymond leads Wisconsin's only private medical school with an operating budget over $900 million. Approximately one out of every three Wisconsin physicians is an alumnus of MCW. With approximately 5,500 faculty and staff members, MCW is the eighth-largest private employer in Metro Milwaukee.

MCW is ranked in the top third of all medical schools nationwide for National Institutes of Health research funding and conducts approximately $170 million annually in funded research. The Medical College employs Wisconsin's largest physician practice group with more than 1,350 doctors. MCW physicians care for approximately 425,000 patients annually at its three primary teaching hospital affiliates, Froedtert Hospital, Children's Hospital of Wisconsin and the Zablocki VA Medical Center.

Under Dr. Raymond's leadership, MCW is addressing Wisconsin's pending physician shortage through the development of statewide community-based medical education campuses. The first two campuses are under development in Central Wisconsin and Green Bay.

A practicing nephrologist who plays active roles in clinical care, teaching, and faculty mentorship, Dr. Raymond is also a medical researcher studying the basic mechanisms of kidney cell function. He has published more than 130 full-length manuscripts and earned nearly $40 million of grant funding over the course of his career. Dr. Raymond joined the MUSC faculty in 1996 as the Dialysis Clinics Incorporated (DCI) Professor of Medicine. He served as Associate Chief of Staff for Research at the Ralph H. Johnson VA Medical Center in Charleston, SC, from 1998 to 2002. Dr. Raymond was MUSC's Associate Provost for Research from 2001-2006, and Vice President for Academic Affairs and Provost from 2002-2010. He is a peer-designated Best Doctor®, and an NIH-funded scientist.

He received his undergraduate and medical degrees with honors from the Ohio State University, and performed his internship, residency, chief residency and nephrology fellowship training at Duke University Medical Center. After completing his training, he joined Duke's faculty where he rose through the ranks to attain tenure.

Dr. Raymond is a member of the Board of Directors of the United Way of Greater Milwaukee, the American Heart Association of Metro Milwaukee and the Kidney Foundation of Wisconsin. He served as Chairman of the American Heart Association's 2011 Milwaukee Heart Walk.

Dr. Raymond has served on the editorial boards of the American Journal of Physiology – Renal Physiology, the Journal of Biological Chemistry and Assay Drug Development Technology. He was selected for membership in both the Association of American Physicians and the American Society for Clinical Investigation. Among Dr. Raymond's many honors are awards for excellence in leadership, research, mentorship, service, diversity, teaching and clinical care.
